The RDSP

The Registered Disability Savings Plan (RDSP) is a Canada-wide registered matched savings plan that gives people living with a disability an opportunity to save for the future and take advantage of up to $90,000 in federal grants and bonds. There are many benefits to having an RDSP.

You can take a tutorial, try the calculator, and learn everything you need to know about the RDSP at:

$150 grants for BC residents!

Endowment 150

Kickstart your RDSP! The Endowment 150 program (also called E150) helps individuals and families save for their future by providing a one-time $150 grant to help their Registered Disability Savings Plan grow. $150 grants are available for adults with RDSPs who are on low-incomes, and all children who are residents of BC and have an RDSP.

The Disability Tax Credit (DTC)

The DTC is a non-refundable tax credit that helps people with disabilities or their supporting persons reduce the amount of income tax they may have to pay when they file their taxes.

Being eligible for the DTC can open the door to other federal, provincial, or territorial programs such as the RDSP, the working income tax benefit, and the child disability benefit.

Have questions or need assistance with the DTC? DABC is able to assist individuals through one on one support.
